

HUNDREDS OVERCOME IN GOTHAM SUBWAY

Fire Aboard Train at Height of Rush Hour Causes Panic Among Passengers.

TUBE FILLED WITH SMOKE AND FLYING BROKEN GLASS

One Woman Dies, While Many Others Are Injured—Heroic Work of Firemen Saves Scores.

NEW YORK, January 6.—More than 300 persons were overcome by smoke, cut by flying glass, bruised and otherwise injured in a fire aboard a train in the subway at the height of the rush hour this morning. In the panic and confusion which ensued police headquarters issued a report that twelve persons had lost their lives, but this later proved to be unfounded, and only one known death was recorded.

The entire fire-fighting force of Manhattan, every ambulance in the borough and every volunteer fireman that could be found were brought to the scene. The fact that scores of persons were unconscious led to the early report that many had been killed. Later, Police Commissioner Woods and Fire Commissioner Kenon announced that so far as they knew there had been no fatalities.

A surgeon attached to the Polytechnic Hospital reported that one injured woman had died in an ambulance on her way to the hospital. Two hundred persons in all were taken to the Polytechnic, the surgeon said, but as far as he knew, with this one exception, none had been fatally injured.

Breaks Out in Stalled Train.

The fire broke out in a subway train which was one of a long line of rush-hour trains held up between the 50th and 52nd street stations by an earlier accident in the power house of the system, which tied up the service. There were reports that there had been a collision between two trains and some of the panic-stricken passengers referred to the fire as a "smash-up." At the time of the fire the subway contained smoke from a previous fire, extinguished only a few minutes before the fire broke out.

It was shortly before 9:30 o'clock that wisps of smoke began to curl from the manholes along the roadway between the two stations. The spot where the fire burned fiercely was opposite 52nd street. The firemen dug into the pavement with their axes. They succeeded in making a hole above the manhole, and from this opening a volume of smoke and flames as if from a crater. A hose was directed through the opening and water extinguishers were used.

For ten blocks the streets were lined with ambulances that came from all over the city. A cordon thrown around Broadway by the police held in check tens of thousands of spectators.

Smoke Soon Fills Subway.

The tie-up was sudden. Trains came slowly to a standstill and remained stationary, some of them stalled at the station. Smoke from burning insulation at the spring street station filled the subway for blocks. A mile away the fumes affected throngs of passengers who crowded the station platforms.

All along the line the smoke was so thick that it was impossible to see more than a few feet ahead. The smoke was so thick that it was impossible to see more than a few feet ahead. The smoke was so thick that it was impossible to see more than a few feet ahead.

Rescued Through the Street.

Sixty persons were taken in an unconscious condition from the scene of the fire to the Flower Hospital. Other hospitals cared for many victims as well. Ventilating gratings were taken up from the sidewalks around the 50th and 52nd street stations and many of the injured were removed in this manner. Fire Commissioner Adamson reported that the fire broke out in a subway car.

The fire started in a train between the 50th and 52nd street stations. Some of the hundreds of passengers wedged in the cars were taken to the hospital. It started with an explosion and the train came almost immediately to a standstill. About the train there was a frantic rush for the exits.

Passengers Struggle for Freedom.

Through the open doors at each end there poured a stream of men and women, who struggled through the smoke, apparently oblivious of the danger of the third rails, toward the two stations. The platforms at these stations were jammed, and in the wild rush for the exits scores of persons were thrown down and trampled on.

As fast as the unconscious victims were removed from the tube they were laid on the sidewalk or they were carried to nearby hospitals and offices and smaller first-aid treatment was given. Firemen and surgeons. So great was the demand upon the fire-fighting forces of the city to aid in the work of reviving the unconscious that hurry calls were sent by telephone to Brooklyn for aid from the firemen there.

DAMAGE TO AUSTRIAN WARSHIPS CONFIRMED

GENEVA, Switzerland, January 6, via Paris.—Recent reports that the Austrian battleships Viribus Unitis and Radetzke had been damaged during the attack by the Anglo-French fleet on Pola were confirmed in a dispatch received by the Geneva Tribune today from Trieste.

The message says that the Austrian battleships were torpedoed and greatly damaged. They are now docked at Pola, and will be useless for a long time.

A dispatch from Venice December 31 stated that the Viribus Unitis, one of the largest ships of the Austrian navy, had been torpedoed by a French submarine. The damage sustained by the Radetzke, a smaller battleship, was said to be of a time to have been due to a torpedo hit to the fire from the Austrian forts at Pola, mistakenly directed against the Austrian warship.

Pleased With Hospital Work.

BERLIN, January 6, by wireless to London.—A message from Vienna says that Archduchess Isabella, wife of the Austrian commander-in-chief, Archduke Frederick, inspected the Austrian Red Cross Hospital at the Austrian capital. The archduchess was received by the Austrian ambassador, Frederic C. Penfield, to whom she expressed her gratification at the manner in which the hospital had been organized and is conducting its work.

WM. H. SINGLETON CALLED BY DEATH

Found Lifeless in Room at His H Street Home by Son This Morning.

PROMINENT IN BUSINESS AND MASONIC CIRCLES

President of Washington Board of Trade and Ardent Church Worker.

William H. Singleton, president of the Washington Board of Trade, widely known in legal, business and Masonic circles, and prominent in activities of the Washington diocese of the Protestant Episcopal Church, was found dead this morning in his room at his residence, 2020 H street northwest.

The discovery of his death was made by his son, Ogden H. Singleton, who was in his room when he awoke this morning. He was found lying on the floor, apparently lifeless. His death was a surprise to all who knew him.

Mr. Singleton was born in February, 1854, in Guilford County, N. C., the son of William R. Singleton, and moved with his parents to the National Capital May 7, 1863. Since his arrival here he has made his residence in the section of Washington wherein his late home, 2020 H street, stands, and has lived at the latter address for many years.

Born in North Carolina.

He was educated in the public schools of Washington, won the first Kendall scholarship ever given and matriculated in the law department of Columbia University. He was able to pursue his academic studies for only two years, however, entering the law school connected with the university at the expiration of that period. He was, however, in the absence of which occurred he pursued up to the time of his death, with offices at 802 F street northwest.

Following his graduation from the law school of Columbia, Mr. Singleton held a position in the United States patent office for a few years, and in the law department of the War Department. He was also a member of the Retail Merchants' Association.

Always an ardent church worker, Mr. Singleton was a member of the congregation of St. Michael and All Angels' Episcopal Church, and very prominent in the body which governs the Cathedral Council, which is an auxiliary to the body which governs the Cathedral of St. Peter and Paul, at Mount St. Alban.

President of Board of Trade.

Last year Mr. Singleton held the office of first vice president of the Board of Trade and was chosen last fall as its chief executive for 1915.

He was especially active in the preparation for the plans of the municipal Christmas tree and festival held on the Capitol plaza Christmas eve, being chairman of the arrangements committee. His connection with the Board of Trade extended over a period of many years, he having joined that body shortly after its organization in 1889.

Widely Known Mason.

Mr. Singleton, although one of the most widely known and active Masons in Washington and a son of the late William R. Singleton, who was famous both as a Masonic author and as grand secretary of the Grand Lodge of the District of Columbia from 1876 until his death, February 23, 1901, did not himself become a Mason until after his father's death.

He was made a master Mason in the Pentagon Lodge, No. 23, F. & A. M., in July, 1901, but, limited to become a charter member of King Solomon Lodge, No. 31, the only "daylight" lodge in the District, May 25, 1905, and he was its first worshipful master.

Expected the House to Override Veto

Mr. Burnett Predicts Action in Case President Objects to Immigration Bill.

SAYS TWO-THIRDS VOTE IS EASILY OBTAINABLE

Chairman Burnett of the House immigration committee today expressed the opinion that if President Wilson should veto the immigration bill, which will pass it over the veto. "The bill passed the House by an exactly two to one majority," said Mr. Burnett, "and no effort was made to increase the majority for the measure. I think that we could easily get a two-thirds vote for passage over the veto, with eight or ten to spare."

Mr. Burnett, who called at the White House to introduce two constituents, said he had not discussed the bill with President Wilson for nearly a year, and then only to try to have the President consent to it being one of the administration bills to be put through Congress last year. The President declined to give it room on his program at that time.

Protests Reach White House.

Many protests from prominent negroes and negro organizations have been reaching the White House against the provision added to the immigration bill excluding Africans from admission to the United States.

Miss Jane Addams of Chicago, who is opposed to the literacy test, will see President Wilson Monday to record her opposition.

When the bill is finally passed President Wilson will give a hearing to advocates and opponents of the bill. Nearly two years ago did the same thing, holding the hearing in the east room, which was attended by several hundred representatives of many organizations, who presented their viewpoints in short speeches.

Sample Bale as Gift.

Erna S. Pike, who is touring the country on foot with his wife and selling miniature bales of cotton to help the southern cotton movement problem, today presented the President with a sample bale.

Senator Jammie and the Kentucky democrats in Congress called on President Wilson today and urged him to stop in Louisville on his return from San Francisco. The President declined to do so, but he would make the stop if possible.

Policy in Mexico Assailed by Lodge

Senator Characterizes Course of the U. S. Administration as "an Animosity."

Characterizing the course of the Wilson administration toward Mexico as an animosity growing out of President Wilson's determination that Huerta be overthrown, Senator Lodge of Massachusetts in the Senate today assailed the Mexican policy of the United States.

Senator Lodge declared that the matter of fact President Wilson's animosity toward Huerta had been largely responsible for the chaotic state in which Mexico finds herself today.

Traces Course of Events.

Senator Lodge traced the course of events from the date of the Tampico incident and the occupation of Vera Cruz by United States forces up to the present time, attempting to show that in every move the administration had merely been acting against Huerta and in the interests of the constitutionalists. He said that the administration had failed to recognize the character of the Mexican people, and to foresee the number of the worst characters would follow in Mexico the overthrow of the de facto government.

Speaking of the apparent tenderness of the government for Villa, Senator Lodge said: "It was reported that Villa never drank nor smoked, and, therefore, he was considered a good man in high quarters here."

"Chaos of Fighting Factions."

In conclusion, Senator Lodge said: "Look at Mexico today, a chaos of fighting factions, the country a prey to bandits, the social organization has collapsed and anarchy is a polite word to apply to it."

I fear it is now too late to adopt any policy toward Mexico except a military policy, and that the American people do not want. Nothing can justify the shedding of blood and the sacrifice of lives in order to put one blood-stained Mexican in the place of another.

German Statement

BERLIN, January 6, by wireless to London, 2:55 p.m.—French trenches in the Argonne were occupied yesterday by German troops, and in upper Alsace French troops were driven away from a position near Senheim (Cernay), according to the German official announcement, given out in Berlin this afternoon. In Poland relatively minor German successes are related. These include the taking of 1,400 prisoners.

The text of the announcement follows:

"The western arena of the war the French continued yesterday their systematic bombardment of villages situated behind our front. They seem indifferent to the killing of their own countrymen and to the destruction of French homes. In any event, this bombardment causes us very little trouble."

War Officially Reported.

French Statement

PARIS, January 6, 2:40 p.m.—An official statement was given out in Paris this afternoon as follows:

"The Belgium enemy delivered, but without success, two attacks in the region of the Argonne and to the southeast of St. Georges.

"On the rest of the front, to the north of the Lys and from the Lys to the Oise, there has been nothing except artillery fighting.

"In the valley of the Aisne and in the sector of Rheims our batteries gained the upper hand over those of the enemy, reducing them to silence. At a point northwest of Rheims it is reported that certain of our troops have made an advance of about 100 yards.

"In the Argonne there developed a very spirited action, which permitted us to retake 300 yards of trenches in the forest of La Grurie, at the same place where there was recently a slight giving way, as previously reported. From Hagatielle and from Fontaine Madame there were delivered two violent German attacks, each of which was repulsed. A complete German regiment was engaged in each movement.

"Near the ravine of Courte Chaussee we blew up, by exploding a mine, 800 yards of German trenches, half of which we subsequently occupied.

"From the Argonne to the Vosges the bad weather has continued. There has been fog and mud. At different points along this front there have been fairly spirited artillery exchanges. In the forest of Le Pretre near Pont-a-Mousson we have continued to gain ground.

"In the region of Thann (in upper Alsace), in spite of a violent cannonade, we retained the gains achieved the night before at Hagatielle as well as in the trenches to the southwest and to the northwest of this village. The enemy succeeded in recouping one of his former trenches on the eastern flank of a nearby height, the summit of which, however, remains in our possession.

"It should be set forth that in the Argonne, near the ravine of Courte Chaussee, at the point where we blew up the German trenches, the attacking regiment commanded by Lieut. Col. Garibaldi delivered a vigorous attack against the breach made by the explosion. The Italians captured 120 prisoners, including twelve under officers, and took one machine gun and one caisson. The chief adjutant of the regiment, Constantine Garibaldi, brother of Lieut. Col. Garibaldi, was killed during this attack."

Russian Statements

PETROGRAD, January 6.—The following official communication from the headquarters of the army of the Caucasus was issued last night:

"The defeat which we inflicted on the Ottoman army in the region of Sari Kamysh is complete. The 9th Turkish Corps was completely annihilated. We made prisoner the commander of the corps, Iskhan Pasha; the commanders of the 17th, 23th and 24th Divisions and two lieutenants (these chiefs, with their staffs), more than a hundred soldiers and a great number of soldiers. The Turkish losses in killed and wounded were enormous. We took many cannon, machine guns, munitions of war and revictualing convoys.

"A company of one of our glorious regiments captured the entire command of the 9th Corps.

"Our victorious troops are pursuing the rest of the 10th Corps, which is trying to escape.

"During the taking of Ardahan one of our Siberian cavalry regiments charged the enemy and cut to pieces two companies of Turkish infantry. A squadron of the same cavalry regiment captured the flag of the 8th Regiment of infantry belonging to the Constantinople.

"The Turks are retreating in all directions.

"General headquarters has issued another official communication concerning the northern operations:

"On the left bank of the Vistula, January 4, rifle and artillery fire continued. Round about and south of Borjow there have been separate engagements.

"In Galicia no essential modifications are to be noted. At Usov pass the Austrians, in retreat, were attacked by our cavalry, which fell upon them flank and rear, after having made their way by mountain paths obstructed by snow—this notwithstanding a violent snowstorm. In this attack we captured about 10 officers and more than 450 soldiers."

German Strength in West.

"Notwithstanding the transfer of German troops to the eastern theater of the war, they left sufficient strength to hold their trenches in the west.

"German aspirations in Poland have suffered a severe check, and it is evident that they realize the infinite difficulty of winter operations in Russia.

"One of the brightest spots in the military operations during December has been the extraordinary achievements of the gallant Serbian army.

"Last night we received news," Lord Kitchener declared, "of a Russian victory in the Caucasus which should have far-reaching influence on all the Turkish operations."

Lord Kitchener Tells of Progress of War

LONDON, January 6, 4:43 p.m.—The war secretary, Lord Kitchener, seized the occasion this afternoon at the meeting of the House of Lords to inform the nation of the progress of the war and of the military situation so far as military exigencies permitted. The House of Lords had assembled for a brief session. Addressing it, Lord Kitchener said:

"During the month of December the allied forces made progress at various points, but the heaviest battle ebbed and flowed with varying success.

"In spite of the unfavorable weather, the French army made noteworthy progress to the east of Rheims and in southern Alsace.

SUFFRAGISTS AGAIN PLEAD WITH WILSON

Hundred Democratic Women Urge His Support of Constitutional Amendment.

PRESIDENT OPPOSED TO NATIONAL PLAN

Would Have Each State Decide Issue for Itself—Mass Meeting Held by Vote Seekers.

About 100 democratic women, many of them voters, visited the White House today to try again to persuade President Wilson to support the constitutional amendment for nation-wide woman's suffrage. He had agreed to meet them.

The amendment will be voted on in the House Tuesday, and the call on the President marks the opening of the final effort of the suffragists at the present session of Congress.

The President received the delegation in the east room. The plea was voiced for the women by Mrs. John E. Turney of Nashville, Tenn., and Miss Alberta Hill, secretary of the Women's Political Union of New York.

TO NATIONAL PLAN

Would Have Each State Decide Issue for Itself—Mass Meeting Held by Vote Seekers.

Mrs. George A. Armes of the District of Columbia branch of the Wilson and Marshall League headed the delegation, which included the wives of several democratic members of Congress, and committees from Maryland, Delaware, New York, Virginia and Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Armes presented a telegram she received this morning from a number of prominent women in Colorado who have taken a conspicuous part in legislative work in that state.

Opposed to Federal Action.

The President told the women that he much admired their skill and tenacity in their campaign, but that he had announced before that he was opposed to granting woman suffrage through federal action.

"I have had a lifelong conviction that this should be done state by state," said the President. "I would take the same position on a question affecting men's suffrage. I would be deserting my deepest constitutional convictions if I changed my position on the subject of woman's suffrage. This question does not represent any antagonism to the cause itself."

After the President had stated his position, Miss Alberta Hill of New York told him that she had made several "perfectly splendid" suffrage speeches after his nomination for the presidency.
